

New rule for Southern and Mokulele passengers requires face masks beginning May 11th

Based on CDC guidelines and government recommendations, including many new state and local laws around the country, Southern Airways and Mokulele Airlines airport team members are now wearing face masks when on duty. This is in addition to the many hygienic and protective measures already in place, such as the use of medical-grade gloves and other personal protective equipment (PPE).

Beginning May 11, all Southern and Mokulele customers must wear face coverings (including masks, bandanas, scarves, or other forms of face protection) in the airports we serve and when in flight.

This policy is in line with measures becoming effective the same date on our interline partner, American Airlines. The mask requirement includes time during check-in, boarding, in-flight, and deplaning. Young children who are not able to maintain a face covering on their own are exempt from this policy, as are individuals with qualifying health reasons or disabilities.

Visit the CDC website for more information about face coverings, or contact Southern Airways Customer Care at (800) 329-0485 for more information.
